

Convict Trash

Run 1812 – 29th November 2021

Hare: Dundee – Oatley

Starters Gun

A lovely Spring afternoon saw us gathering for tonight's run, some in the car park, some in the park, and as 6.30pm approached we merged together to get the drum on tonight's run.

Where the runners needed to take care due to the recent rain, and where the walkers should go.

Birthday – Bingo

Athelete – Merkin 650 runs

Certain connections just seem to be beyond me at this age. For example, if someone calls me on the telephone and says, "Can you meet me at the Seven-Eleven at eight?" I show up at the Five-and-Ten at nine.

Run Review by Bingo

I was truly honoured that Dundee was the Hare for the run on my Birthday, and would he set a run that Bingo would adore, would love. No he did not.

Well we took off down past Oatley Station into the bush to a precipice, and how did Bingo get down, on her backside of course. Aunty Tickle helped me.

Where else but Oatley could Bingo enjoy seeing the lovely houses, but No she had to keep up with the pack. Set a run where Merkin had a good front, front Running Bastard.

Bingo liked not having a clue where she was. At 7.14pm I came out of somewhere, and said to myself I think I know this area.

A truly wonderful run for everyone except Bingo so I will give it 36 out of 100.

A great dunny read coming your way again....

RA's Report –

Oatley

- Named after James Oatley, a local Watchmaker
- He was a Convict, transported from the UK to Botany Bay for Life in 1814. He stole a mattress.
- He was pardoned in 1821 and made the Overseer of the Town Clock in Hyde Park Barracks
- Before 1903 the area was part of Hurstville. When the Post Office opened in 1903, it became Oatley
- Oatley is notable as the Terminus for the first Railway Electrification in Sydney in 1926. This is where the trains slept at night.
- The area was well known for farming Oysters, up until the 1990's when the farms were wiped out by the QX Disease
- The Pub opened in 1928, and it was pretty rough as the main customers were Oyster Farmers and the occasional Hasher
- It gained fame due one of its regular customers – John O'Grady
- He wrote the book "They're a Weird Mob" in the 60's, and the Pub featured in the movie
- Average House price $1.9 Million

Next Weeks' Run Hare - Bingo – Caringbah Pub
(meet in Library car park)

Prickette

Slotcard nominated Dirty Weekend – she jinxed school on Monday because she had a hangover, and didn't go on Friday as she had to sew a dress for Saturday night. And was seen hanging around in a phone box when she was 12 (the original call girl).

Pig nominated Slotcard for pointing out and not knowing Dirty Weekend's name

Slotcard nominated Dirty Weekend for thinking she was "a goodie two shoes".

Prick

Pig nominated Cold Duck – a couple of weeks ago he spoke of this wonderful racehorse, and Cold Duck says I am backing it, and then he said he got the Trifecta
