

Convict Trash

Run 1923- 29/1/24

Hare: Slotcard – Location: Jannali

Starters Gun

Anticipation was growing in the crowd, Slotcard's first run in the Shire since she has become a resident. Where will the run go? How long will it be? Are steep inclines included? Will we go into the bush on this hot evening?

During the day Doc spotted a car with a sticker on the back window ... Jannali living the dream.

Circle Report – Hannibal

The Jannali coat of arms consists of a pork chop, schooner and dollar sign situated over a creek.

Why? Read on below.

A man is suing a pub after slipping on grease allegedly left by a fellow drinker who had taped pork chops to his feet as a joke.

Troy Bowron, 25, broke his arm and says he had to give up his job as an upholsterer's apprentice. He is claiming $750,000 in compensation from the Jannali Inn in southern Sydney and its owner, Kelly Wells, for "permitting the use of pork chops as footwear in circumstances that the defendant knew, or should have known, that such use would have produced a hidden trap".

Mr Bowron is also suing the drinker, Ross Lucock, over the accident in November 1997. One witness told the New South Wales District Court yesterday that he saw Mr Lucock tape the chops to his feet. "He was parading around," he said. Mr Lucock also allegedly rode a skateboard in the pub while wearing the meat.

Mr Bowron said he was playing in a pool competition that night. He said the floor became greasy and he slipped on the fat and fell. Mr Bowron, who says he partly lost the use of his arm, is suing Mr Lucock for negligence, claiming his antics caused a dangerous situation.

Run Report – Grewsome

we all know about the 3S's before we leave home but tonight we have four – spritzer *on a run about six months ago, in the dark, the trail went on to the bush path but only as an on back. Tonight, we ran part of the bush path ... if we had crossed the road at what appeared to be the end the path continued.

*a short run about 3kms

Score – “I always give a score of 8.5/ 10 tonight the run was short so I will give it 4.25/10 which equates to 8.5/10

Athletes – 900 runs – Dirty Weekend 100 runs - Doublebangher

Birthdays – Doublebangher

Prickette -

*Pig > Slotcard – did a really good job tonight, usually just sits in pub and hands out maps

*Growsome > Dirty Weekend – 900 runs and not wearing a jacket for at least ten percent of them

Prick –

*Bingo > Dundee – remastered a photo of Bingo’s last birthday (a significant one) as he did not like the look of the original one...”to make her look better”.

*Dirty Weekend > Dundee – hand job

*Growsome > Dundee – WhatsApp post about Dragons

*Pig > Stopcock – fluid flows

* And this week’s winners are Dirty Weekend and Dundee**

Next Weeks Run

Hare : Rabbit – rainbow run – bright dress run

Date : 5/2/24

Start : McRaes Park

Corner of McRaes Avenue and Railway Parade, Peshurst.

On On : home cater in the park. BYO

This was Jannali in the 1960s. Clearly visible from the western side of the railway line is the Jannali Inn built in 1957. The street on the hill behind the hotel is Charles Place which started out as little more than a track and used as a short cut to the shops. The main shopping centre is located on Box Road to the right and near the car park is the supermarket established by Flemings which was later bought by Woolworths. In the 1950s, Jannali had a variety of small businesses which early residents remember well such as Laybutts Haberdashery. However, with changes to retail shopping, most gradually disappeared or changed hands over time. The arcade still in use today can be seen here where there is a sign for Bates Arcade in the foreground and near to the railway line.
