AT THE BUCKET

As I knew I was going to be absent from Hash this week I organised for DISH to be stand in Scribe. Unfortunately DISH was unable to attend so she called VENUS asking her "to find somebody, anybody" to fulfil this job! I will now insert some of DUNDEE's words of wisdom here for you all to read!

"HOLEPROOF & stand in DISH were otherwise engaged so who would you think our illustrious RA thought to select to handle the difficult scribe duties... of course someone with hearing & eyesight problems & no tools for the occasion. A sliver of paper & a pen that didn't work was supplied by the RA & was supplemented with a working pen & some envelopes from the ever efficient VENUS but the major assistance was from the very beautiful & always helpful TICKLE. So this dribble is a dedication to her." Thanks DUNDEE and TICKLE

The heavens opened up so the bucket was held under cover and before long, the nine foolhardy runners who defied the conditions, returned dripping wet to join the sensible Hashers who had stayed behind.

"I will just sit here and mind the bucket, it's a tough job but someone has to do it!"

"How stupid, running in the rain!"

"I did!"

"Here's to us!"

No way were this bunch going out in the rain!

"Blah Blah Blah! Hurry up I want to give the run report I have a lot to say!"

THE CIRCLE

Soon SNIFFER called the gathering of thirty hashers to circle up and listen to the history lesson she had prepared. Once again I have tried to find some additional interesting facts for you:

Before The Sutherland Hospital opened in Caringbah in 1958 the majority of babies born in The Shire were delivered at The Jacaranda Private Hospital, Jacaranda Road Caringbah. The Matron of this hospital was a keen gardener and propagated Jacaranda seedlings then presented each mother, as she took her baby home, with a Jacaranda tree to plant to commemorate the birth. In springtime, The Shire is a blaze of these purple blue trees!

"Once upon a time, it was a dark and stormy night!"

CREEPY CARINGBAH CAMPUS A GHOSTLY REMINDER OF OLD SCHOOL DAYS

It was once a hive of activity full of students eager to learn.

But due to an unstable foundation, Caringbah High School's north campus was abandoned in 2010 leaving behind lessons on whiteboards and notes on desks.

The only activity at the site became that of vandals tagging it with graffiti.

The building became a haven of high school memories for Shire locals. It was used as the school backdrop for the Channel Ten drama Puberty Blues.

A nearby resident said the abandoned classrooms were a favourite for children wanting to do some extra-curricular activities.

"It has basically turned into a place for young people to trash and graffiti or go skating," she said.

"I was an extra for Puberty Blues and even when they were filming the show there was trashed furniture thrown around the rooms, smashed windows and graffiti.

"I think they left whatever they didn't think they needed as there were books and all the lockers still in there."

Among the former students was murdered 20-year-old drug dealer Jamie Gao who attended the now ruined campus until it was closed in 2010. The building was damaged by a suspicious fire in 2013.

"Yoo hoo! Here I am!"

RUN REPORTER: SIR LES was the run reporter and once again I will insert

"What about the run you bastard?"

"Great map, 8.5"

DUNDEE's words of wisdom

"As there was no trail due to the inclement weather, GREWSOME, map in hand led the nine hearty runners around Caringbah & Lilli Pilli. Meandering around the outside of the Camellia Gardens heading south into Lilli Pilli, before heading east to Woolooware Then the downpour came, which obliterated vision and created a helter skelter home sprint. SIR LES serviced the obituary and gave the hare 8.5 out of 10 for a well set out map."

BIRTHDAY: DUNDEE's quote again: "Nobody wanted to own up to getting older so the RA moved straight on to the Prick nominations and my trusty accomplice's writing.

PRICKETTE OF THE WEEK NOMINATIONS:

MERKIN → RABBIT for telling the RA to hurry up or something like that and it had something to do with standing next to the RA according to TICKLE.

GREWSOME → SQUATTING SQUAW for chucking a turn after LOANER brown eyed some people on the way to Bondi – well that's something like it says here.

PRICK OF THE WEEK NOMINATIONS:

HANNIBAL → GREWSOME for telling him he was lactating on the run – think it might have had something to do with his half marathon at the Gold Coast the day before producing lactic acid.

GREWSOME → LOAN ARRANGER for mooning and making SQUATTING SQUAW drive all the way to Bondi

PRICKETTE and PRICK OF THE WEEK

"I'm not, I am just embarrassed still about you mooning strangers LOANER!"

"Why are you hiding SQUATTING SQUAW?"

SQUATTING SQUAW

LOAN ARRANGER

Scribe's note: The following words of wisdom (?) came from DUNDEE

"I still think the female Prick should be called Clitoris of the Week instead of Prickette but would that be a sign of affection rather than debauchery?"

In a previous report I received from DUNDEE he referred to the Harriettes giggling about the word "Hymen" implying it referred to a man having a high erection! Now, with this reference to a Harriette's clitoris I think it is "high" time DUNDEE had an anatomy lesson!

Hymen refers to a woman's virginity, NOT a man with a high erection!

To call the Prickette award "Clitoris of the week" would be incorrect.

"Vagina of the Week" would be the correct terminology! OK DUNDEE?

SPECIAL AWARD: GREWSOME was given half a down down for only running half a marathon on the Gold Coast! Great effort GREWSOME.
