Run 1864 – 5th. December 2022

Hare – Dish's Daceyville Downpour

The heavens looked threatening as we assembled in the Pagewood pub but Dundee had consulted his trusty radar map, suggesting it wouldn't rain until after 8, which, according to past assessments of his, meant it was probably going to piss down during the run.....& it did of course.

Fortunately it was also the hottest day of the year, in the first week of summer, so the lightning, hail & heavy raindrops meant little to the intrepid running throng, who sang all the way round. The walker/talkers just raised their brollies of course but I'm intruding on the Trail Master.

Run Report

RUN 1864 -DISH – PAGEWOOD HOTEL(REX)

As we gathered at the Hotel there was a few rumblings, not from the Hashers, but from the Gods above. Rumour had it, we were going to get wet on the Dish's run.

On On was called and the runners including Blondie, Dame Nellie, Cold Duck and Sir Les navigated a tricky crossing at the lights, and watched as Dundee took his life in his hands and run across the road against the lights.

Grewsome, Scotch Mist and Cinder Fella (aka) Cameron and Andrew who were running late, chased the pack down before we got too far into it.

Walkers including Hannibal, Rabbit, Doc, Moa Goa, Grenade, Dirty Weekend, Goldmark, Kizzme and Taxing kept up with the runners for a little while before shortcutting

As the pack were running up Fitzgerald Avenue, the heavens opened and all the soft cocks were seeking shelter, except for Cinder Fella. Because of his slim build he hadn't been hit with any drops of rain and was setting a cracking pace up front with no arrows and no idea of where he was.

Given we have all run in the rain before, a decision was made to keep going sand head for the bucket.

Dame Nellie who is off to Perth again, gave the run report and awarded a 8.5/10 to Dish who had set a great run before it was washed out.

Circle:

The rain was starting to dissipate & the beer was tasting refreshing as the group nesting became a little less huddled in the confined space between Grewsome's bucket vehicle & someone's side fence. Nobody seemed too interested when Doc called Circle Up & Dame Nellie continued to prattle on about his latest adventures, until he called upon the latter mentioned to administer the last rites to Dish's run.

Now, unfortunately, in the absence of Bingo, I passed the envious task of recording the event to Duck, who, it became obvious, has severe technical disabilities & couldn't work out how to press the start button.

Accordingly he passed the job on to someone with great skills in that department, Cameron, who then asked me to open the phone with facial imaging. All this had taken place as Nellie was bumbling around & mumbling some rubbish, which became inaudible to your scribe, who has severe hearing disabilities – actually it's called discretionary hearing but don't tell anyone.

Hence this part of the diatribe will be written from the notes, which are unintelligible & an occasional tidbit from the phone recording, thanks Cam.

He thought it was an excellent run as it meant we didn't cross any major roads in a suburb of which he had no idea even though he'd lived close by for many years – must be a relative of Bingo's.

Then he mentioned something about rain & chalk & lanes & stuff & managed to give the run 8,5 out of 10.

Pagewood

🕒 Was originally named South Daceyville, renamed Pagewood after a Mayor of Botany, Fred Page

🕒 The area where Eastgardens now stands was the site of National Studios from 1935 - 1959. Films shot there included the Flying Doctor, The Power and the Glory, Eureka Stockade, Long John Silver, Smiley, Robbery under Arms, Smiley Gets a Gun and Summer of the 17 th Doll.

🕒 You've heard the ad "We love football, meatpies, kangaroos and Holden Cars". Well the Holden Factory across the road has built Fridges, Gun parts airplane wings,... and Holden Cars. (During World War 2 it made the wings for Mosquito Aeroplanes, Parts for 25 pounder Artillery guns and ammunitions. After the war in made Frigidaire refrigerators, and cars from 1949 - 1980)

🕒 The site was then sold to WD & HO Wills which later became part of British American Tobacco, making cigarettes on the site until 2014.

⌚ Meriton is now redeveloping the area, calling it Pagewood Green, with 5 buildings and 1727 units on the site.

⌚ Famous Residents of Pagewood have included:

o A Neurosurgen - Charlie Teo,

o A Rock Guitarist - Bob Spencer (played in Skyhooks, The Angels, the Choirboys and Rose Tattoo)

Pricks of the Week

Kizzme was nominated by Pig for on the weekend around the campfire at Rovers reading porno books & refusing to walk up a big hill somewhere.

Goldie was nominated by Duck for calling him a Lemo driver, which probably means she thought it meant he was actually a Lebo driver for the Lebanese mafia.

Rabbit was nominated by Pig for getting drinks for everyone, which should've given her a much higher award than Prick.

Pig was nominated by Moa & Grewsome for spending the afternoon mowing the lawn so he could put the cuttings in the bin to be picked up that night but, as he was putting out the bin realised, due to all the neighbour's bin colours that it was the wrong week.

Dame Nellie was nominated by Pig for pretending he had new shoes, which on close or not even close attention showed they must've been at least ten years old & would only be the second lot of shoes I've seen him wear in nearly thirty years. He was also nominated by Sir Les for passing off some horrible piss as home brew.

Duck was nominated by Grewsome for not wearing old shoes or something.

Winners were Kizzme & Nellie

DUNDEE'S PONDER OF THE WEEK:

The greenies strike again, now toilet paper is considered vandalism. Maybe they wipe their respective bums with leaves!

Call for end to bushland 'vandalism'

THE Bennetts Bush Defenders group has called for action to be taken against running groups marking out trails with toilet paper.

Group member Leonie Lea said spreading vast amounts of toilet paper over trees was a form of vandalism.

Ms Lea, who took a picture of toilet paper left over the bushland by runners, said council should act against the ruining groups.

"Our volunteers have worked for 10 years to rehabilitate Bennetts Bushland Park for the benefit of the whole community," she said.

"Anyone found dumping any type of rubbish in public parks is liable to heavy fines, and we are asking members of the public to contact Brisbane City Council if they know the name of the running group responsible for the repeated depositing of toilet paper in Bennetts Bush, the Seven Hills Bushland Reserve, the Seven Hills State School and other public parks in the areas."

The next time Charles gets married, someone should warn the Pope.

After a few drinks and small talk, he invited her back to his apartment.

Just before they turned out the light, he asked,

"How do you like your eggs in the morning?"

"Unfertilised", she replied.
